Greetings to all. My name is Liam O'Malley. I'm an American looking to spend some time in a Connachta speaking Gaeltacht. I'm hoping someone would be interested in some borderline free labor, especially anyone who raises sheep. I've a good deal of experience with wool production, cleaning, carding, dyeing, spinning, weaving and knitting, and I'd love to get some experience with shepherding and shearing. I'm also looking to learn the language, and I've a good deal of experience picking up languages quickly on the job (Icelandic, Danish and Spanish). I'm happy to work for room and board plus maybe a small amount for pints on the weekends, I'm tidy and generally keep to myself. I'm quite happy to provide references upon request. As I'd said, I'm looking primarily at shepherding or wool work, but I've a great deal of bartending experience, I spent three summers fishing for my food and I'm a master of digging the hole and working iron (I can make horseshoes from flat stock but I've never tried to shoe one), and

I'm just looking for a situation where I'm not losing money on living expenses and can learn the language, so I'm pretty cheap and easy. If anyone is up for taking me on, or willing at the least to consider it, Please contact me and I'll send a CV. Cead mile failte,

You can email me at liam.aom@gmail.com
