Daniel Boone

There was a programme on telly when I was growing up called 'Daniel Boone'. It was on every Saturday night and it was about an early American Pioneer who was a hero to both the Cowboys and the Indians. As a young boy I loved it and I dreamt of being a Daniel Boone when I grew up.

What attracted me most to Daniel Boone wasn't that he could fight off a bear with his bare hands or that he could throw a tomahawk as well as any native Indian but rather that he was able to set up camp wherever he wanted. He'd just find his spot and there he'd lay his head for the night. I became fascinated by camping and desperately wanted to emulate my hero.

After much cajoling of my parents it was finally agreed that myself and my pal were to be let camp out in our back yard on the first Friday night of the holidays. A small camp was borrowed and huge preparations were set in place. We even had my mam's small gas burner for our sausages in the morning. However on the night in question Mother Nature didn't smile on us. It was to say the least an horrendous night and despite our protestations we weren't allowed outside the door. After a range of negotiations which would make Brexit look like child's play we were finally allowed to 'camp' in our sitting room. Try as we might camping on the sitting room floor wasn't quite the wilderness experience of Daniel Boone and even if mam did make us breakfast in the morning it wasn't quite what we were hoping for.

I was reminded of my childhood camping experience recently when due to the weather the annual Mass at Oghily Mass Rock was cancelled and was held instead in Derrada School. The Mass was lovely, the company was great, the tea and buns were delicious but it wasn't quite the same! There is something of Daniel Boone left in me yet!

God Bless, Fr Tod

Corpus Christi

Mass today will end with Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. Benediction is an old and very beautiful ritual which starts with the singing of the Tatum Ergo;

Tantum ergo Sacramentum

Veneremur cernui:

Et antiquum documentum

Novo cedat ritui:

Præstet fides supplementum

Sensuum defectui.

Genitori, Genitoque

Laus et iubilatio,

Salus, honor, virtus quoque

Sit et benedictio:

Procedenti ab utroque

Compar sit laudatio.

Priest's Summer Collection

The Priest's Summer Collection (Blue envelopes) will be taken up at Masses next weekend. This is one of the four annual collections from which the priest draws his monthly stipend. Thank you for your continued generous support of your priest.

Corpus Christi Procession

The Parish Corpus Christi Procession takes place following 11.30am Mass in Newport this Sunday. At the end of Mass parishioners will be invited to leave via the Castlebar St. side door and to form a procession down to the Grotto with Confirmation children at the rear. The Choir, First Communion children and the Blessed Sacrament will leave via the Main door and will join the Procession following the Confirmation children. The Procession will finish with Benediction in the Oratory.
